

Earth Changes 2001

No. 1 FALL 2001 $12.00

A Special Report From The Phoenix Quest

? Destiny's Dates ?

By what ever name you call it (The Changes In The Earth, The Time of Tribulation, The Great Purification, a Pole Shift, an Avalanche of the Crust, or The End Times) the Prophecies of the Ages and the predictions of the most remarkable psychics, converge on:

October, November, & December
2001

1. ^{The} Millennial Prophecies

Edgar Cayce, Cosa Nostra Damus, Mother Shipton, Nostradamus, Y'shua (Jesus), & others

predict the Earth's rendezvous with another major shift in the poles when the Earth's crust suddenly avalanches in a great circular motion which flings the polar zones towards the Equator and causes widespread earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, and huge 300 foot tidal surges which flood inland in many places for up to hundreds of miles.

If there is a Final Millennial Prophecy, it will be found within these pages.

Vortex Tectonics

A New Science of the Earth has recently emerged to explain how the wobbling motion of the Earth's rotation drives plate tectonics to create volcanoes, earthquakes, El Nino, Global Warming, and the shifting of the poles.

2. ^{The} Trends in the Earth which prove that Edgar Cayce's Earth Changes predictions are right on track and that his psychic predictions about the shifting of the poles in 2001 have odds of 84% to 92% of coming in on time. An anomalous fourfold increase in Earthquake and volcanic activity since 1958, as predicted by this great Seer, confirms that a sudden shift in the location of the poles is about to commence.

The Pole Shift
When & How
World Outline
Doomed Areas
Safe Lands
Friends & Havens

3. ^{The} Avalanche of the Crust

How Chandler's Wobble will catapult the crust of the Earth into an avalanche up Longitude East 40 and down Longitude West 140 to shift the location of the North Pole into North Russia. How it will begin, how long it will last, what the ride will be like, what areas are doomed, what areas are safe, Map Guides to the Earth Changes, how to prepare to survive the aftermath.

CHECK FOR PREDICTIONS ABOUT DANGERS IN YOUR AREA

To obtain your copy of this urgent report as well as learn how to connect with guidance on the Internet and in your local area, send a check, money order, or credit card authorization for $12.00 to MetaSyn Media – HCO1 Box 890A, Black Canyon City, Arizona 85324 - Or call 800-583-8642, or 623-374-9585; Email ecbulletin@earthlink.net

Earth Changes 2001

is published by

MetaSyn Media

HC01 Box 890A, Black Canyon City, AZ, 85324, USA

Issue No. 1: Fall 2001
Pull Date: December 31, 2001

FIRST EDITION: published May 15, 2001; file begun 10:30 PM April 6, 2001; Prime Print Draft file complete: July 8, 2001 at 10:50 PM.

© 2001 by MW Mandeville; All rights reserved. Neither the author nor the publisher take any responsibility for the use of any of the materials, methods, or knowledge described in this publication, nor for the products thereof.

For Subscriptions & Advertising
1-800-583-8642

For Catalog Ordering
1-800-583-8642

Internet
www.MichaelMandeville.com
ecbulletin@earthlink.net

Key Words & Topics

Key topics include: 10,500 BC, 2000, 2001, Ancient Civilizations, Ancient Egypt, Ancient History, Ancient Memory, Archeology, Atlantis, Catastrophism, Chandler's Wobble, Christianity, Crustal Motion, Earthquakes, Edgar Cayce, End Times, Geology, Geophysics, Giza, Great Pyramid, Hall of Initiation, Hapgood, Hermes and Hermetic Philosophy, History Of The 20th Century, Legends, Location of the Poles, Magnetic Reversals, Metaphysics, Millennium, Mythology, Mythology and Metaphor of the Phoenix, Plate Tectonics and Geophysics thereof, Polar Ice Caps, Polar Motion, Pole Shift, Prophecy, Prophets, Religion, Sphinx, Validation and Verification of Psychic Accuracy, Volcanism, Vortex, Wisconsin Ice Age, & Y'shua

Quest Calendar On The Road

Book Signings In Pacific Northwest: July, 2001

Table Of Contents

1. The Phoenix Quest	4
2. The Phoenix Paradigm	10
3. Tectonic Trends In The Earth	16
4. Vortex Predictions & The Latest Activity In The Earth For 2001	21
5. Finding The Consensus	24
6. Nostradamus' "Great Translation" Pole Shift Prophecy	27
7. Nostradamus In France	29
8 Synchronicities In The Prophecies	30
9. "Cosa" Nostra Damus" Prophecy	32
10. Cosa Nostra Damus "Mother Shipton" Prophecy of 1982	33
11. Predictions of Elaine Phipps-Earl	34
12. I Ching	35
13. Final Omens & Warnings of Phoenix Five	36
14. The Millennial Prophecy	39
Introduction	39
Outline Of The Millennial Prophecy	40
The Source	41
The God Game	42
The Great Emulator	42
The World Epic	44
The God Game For the 20 th century & The Millennium	45
Future Shock	46
The Advent of Christ Consciousness	49
The Change In The Earth	50
The Hall of Records	50
The Great Initiate	52
The Fifth World	53
15. How The Ancient Prophecies Parallel Cayce's Millennial Prophecy	54
16. The Avalanche of the Earth's Crust	59
17. The Return of the Phoenix	75
18. Reviews Of The Trilogy	77
19. Concerning The Last Days Of A.R.E. Just Prior To The Earth Changes Of 2001	78
20. Spirit Initiations	81

Quest Calendar at Elk Mountain

(see #20. Spirits Rising)

Camp-Outs at La Querencia

September 8-15

Raising Spirit Celebrations

September 15-22

Major Features

Final Visions and Auguries of the "Change In The Earth"

As reported in The Internet Earth Change Bulletins and the Phoenix Quest Email Letters, this Bulletin provides Advance Warnings about the Avalanche of the Crust from the Psychic and Spiritual Realms. A powerful millennial warning can be obtained through the Synchronicity of Prophecies from Ancient Prophets and Sources, Edgar Cayce, Nostradamus, and Modern Seers. Major prophecies include:

- Nostradamus' "Pole Shift" Prophecy"
- The "Cosa Nostra" Damus Prophecy
- "Cosa Nostra" Mother Shipton
- Final Omen Warnings

Edgar Cayce's Millennial Prophecy

As Condensed From The Readings Of Edgar Cayce and as Published in the Three Volume Anthology of the "Return of the Phoenix"

A final compilation of Cayce's millennial prophecies about the opening of an ancient time vault in Egypt and a shift in the location of the poles which will create many catastrophic changes in the Earth during 2001 and in the following years. Cayce's predictions and stories are fully presented, for the first time ever. If there is a millennial prophecy, this is it.

The Ancient Prophecies

How do the millennial predictions of Edgar Cayce, Nostradamus, and others relate to the millennial "end times" prophecies of the ancient religions? Are there major parallels between Cayce's stories and the ancient memories of humanity as found in the old records, legends, and prophecies of various religions and cultures?

A Letter From The Publisher

This Special Report provides a major update for the work began some seven years ago when I undertook the Quest to learn about Edgar Cayce's predictions and his strange prophecy about a shifting of the crust of the Earth.

During the early part of 2000, I completed the three volume set of the Return of the Phoenix and turned my attention to the next phase of my Quest, which quickly became focused on learning how to monitor the activity of the Sun, Moon, and Earth for signs of an impending shift in the location of the Earth's poles.

This monitoring is accomplished through the Earth Systems Monitor on the web and is reported through the Earth Changes Bulletin (internet email news). We link together a great many sources of near real-time information about the dynamic motions and phenomena in the Earth. The latest findings from these efforts is provided in this first printed "Earth Changes 2001".

In addition to the geophysical monitoring we undertook as part our Phoenix Quest, we began to seek additional counsel and advance warning through psychic agencies from the spiritual realm. We set up a special psychic monitor website to draw together as much consensus as possible from the multitude of impressions, visions, dreams, and precognitive experiences which large numbers of people are having about the impending "Avalanche Of The Crust" (which some people call a "pole shift").

This part of our Quest drew some new information about the potential timing of the Avalanche. A majority of those who are psychically attuned seem to expect some major destructive tectonic events related to earthquakes and volcanism in North America during the Summer of 2001 which will be followed later in the year, sometime between October and December, with the beginning of the shifting of the poles.

This consensus appears to bring both ancient and modern prophecy sources into synchronicity to such an extent that we can outline a prophecy for the year 2001. It has high credibility by virtue of the broad agreement between various highly reputed clairvoyant sources. Accordingly, the primary focus of this first Bulletin is to share this prophetic information as widely as possible with all peoples and religious traditions.

We will have one final addition to make to our treatment of the prophecies of the Fourth World. When we can clearly confirm the most likely line of fall for the crustal avalanche (pole shift), we will print a final version of the "Avalanche Scenario" in Bulletin No. 2.

Best wishes, Michael Wells Mandeville

The Phoenix Quest

1. The Phoenix Quest

by Michael Wells Mandeville

I began the journey which I chronicled as the Phoenix Quest in the Trilogy of the Return of the Phoenix in 1994 after viewing a video tape about the "Mystery of the Sphinx" by JA West. Seeing that the Sphinx could be as old as Edgar Cayce during the 1930's had said it was, some 12,500 years old, I could not help but take a strong interest in what else West had discovered.

West quickly rewarded his video audience with seismology data which demonstrated what looked suspiciously like underground passageways near the Sphinx in the location where Cayce had predicted an entrance to a "Hall of Records" of the fabled Atlantis. And so my Quest began. I endeavored to find what more I could about the credibility of Edgar Cayce. I especially wanted to know how seriously we should take his horrible predictions about earth changes and a shifting of the poles.

Never have I regretted the decision to undertake to evaluate Cayce, even though it was to fundamentally change my life. Not in anything which I have learned since have I come to downgrade the quality and relevance of Edgar Cayce's amazing work nor what West revealed in 1992.

I was often astounded about the extent to which I found Cayce highly credible. Many of his statements about the ancient past seem so outlandish. Yet, like his often strange health potions, Cayce's statements about the past and the cosmos are almost always found to be proven or corroborated in some way by research which has been done during the past 50 years, long after his death in 1945.

Though he was often difficult to understand and was widely misquoted, I found, if I diligently sought to test his actual statements from the transcripts in the archives with the objective historical realities, that I could establish the proper interpretation of this passages and determine his exact accuracy. It wasn't long before I began to develop an exact score of the confidence we can place in his amazing descriptions about the ancient past and his sometimes terrifying, sometimes hopeful

How To Connect With The Phoenix Quest

Websites

Return of the Phoenix The Trilogy

Some Chapters from all three books are on the Internet, especially those with heavy scientific content which prove Cayce's clairvoyance
MichaelMandeville.com/phoenix/phoenix.htm

Phoenix Quest

Sharing, Discussions, Q&A

MichaelMandeville.com/quest/

Earth Changes Bulletin

MichaelMandeville.com/quest/

Cosmic Catalog

MichaelMandeville.com/catalog/cosmic

Earth Systems Monitor

MichaelMandeville.com/earthmonitor

Elk Mountain Spiritual Center

MichaelMandeville.com/elkmountain predictions about the catastrophic "Change In The Earth" which begins in 2001.

My Phoenix Quest slowly emerged during 1994 and by 1995 I had already built a website about Cayce's material. As I set forth on my Quest I was soon exploring a full range of geological and historical data in a ever widening quest to understand obscure phenomenon like pole shifts while browsing the ancient legends of Egypt.

By and by the Quest led me to ancient Egypt where I eventually had to go in person to see for myself if Cayce's grand statements about the Pyramids and the Hall of Records had any real physical credibility. It did not take me long to see and comprehend that these ancient monuments were as important as Cayce and many others have claimed for hundreds of years.

Eventually I picked up the themes and trails of Thoth/Hermes and many other legends and myths of the ancients which whispered obscurely, like Edgar Cayce, of vast long ages and of ancient homelands which had been destroyed "overnight" in planetary

Radio Show

Hear MW Mandeville for an hour every Wednesday Night beginning 7:00 or 7:30 PM (MST - Arizona) on

Mysteries of the Mind with Alex Merklinger

Millennium Radio Network
If you cannot find it on the radio dial for your area, you can listen to it on the internet at <http://www.mysteriesofthemind.com>

If you have questions, you can try sending them to Alex Merklinger (email amerklinger@usa.net) and he will pick a sample to ask or you can send your questions to: mwman@earthlink.net

Internet New Bulletins

For news commentaries and alerts from a highly select group of editors, go to <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/earthchange-bulletins> or directly subscribe by sending a blank email message to:

earthchange-bulletins-subscribe@yahoogroups.com

For discussions between people with a strong spiritual orientation, you may subscribe by sending a blank email message to:

phoenix-quest-subscribe@yahoogroups.com

Email Addresses:

mwman@earthlink.net
ecbulletin@earthlink.net

catastrophes. From these hoary old stories full of dim memories, I obtained many keys to the past, present, and the future.

I spent five years grinding pennilessly on the proposition that the results may help save millions of people. If Cayce was right, and could be shown to be highly credible, it would be very clear that a profound change in the surface of the Earth would begin to wreak havoc sometime in 2000 or 2001.

My interests turned into obsession and then transmuted again into total absorption. The intensity of this period of my life became the most intense, the most focused, the most completely given to a task. Progressively one illusion after another was sandblasted out of my brain by a ceaseless, withering barrage of data while my personal life was completely sacrificed.

The faster the 20th century dissolved away, along with all of the self-centered pretensions of materialism, the faster I made rapid intellectual progress in finding new patterns and new layers which connected vast ages and many dimensions of the dynamics of the Earth and human history.

Some of the results of my research became the trilogy of the "Return of the Phoenix". The distilled essence of the new "World Epic" which emerged in its pages is provided in the "Phoenix Paradigm" (see the following article).

Verifying Cayce's Accuracy

The first task of the Quest was to establish Cayce's credibility by establishing a systematic anthology of his verified objective predictions or clairvoyant statements about the world which could be researched and proven or disproved with hard physical facts. There was so much content and variety of topics that the anthology had to become three books.

Through all three books of the Trilogy I relentlessly tracked down and scored Cayce's objective historical predictions about the future (anything which would leave an historical record) and his clairvoyant statements about the past which could not be guessed from existing knowledge.

After several years of sleuthing, I was able to report in "Book Two: The Veil":

"What is the hard nosed bottom line for Cayce's precognitive ability? In one word, phenomenal! For long-term "word-class" historical events of all kinds, Cayce's accuracy ranged between 84% and 96%, and currently averages out at 92%. It is highly doubtful that any psychic, past or present in the 20th century has ever come remotely close to matching Cayce's accuracy. Interestingly enough, the score is in the same ball park as the 85% score Hugh Lynn Cayce established many years ago for Cayce's health readings."

The accuracy of Cayce's predictions varied according to the topic, subject, and the length of time involved. Table 200 shows his accuracy rate with four different types of historical events. His greatest accuracy was in calling the trends of

Cayce's Scoreboard

Confidence Ratings For Cayce's Statements (from Table 100 in "Return of the Phoenix Book One: The Veil")
For Pending Predictions	Probability Factor	Qualifications
Overall confidence	92%
For Political Predictions	92%
For The Pole Shift Prediction	approximately 90%	comparative base is small, one unfilled prediction could substantially change the confidence score for the remaining predictions;
For any given Earth Change prediction connected with the pole shift	approximately 85%
For the Hall of Records Prophecy	probably better than 90%	no valid ground of comparison, probable within the overall confidence estimate
For the Millennial Prophecy	probably better than 90%	no valid ground of comparison, probable within the overall confidence estimate

Accuracy of Edgar Cayce's Long-Term Precognition and Clairvoyance

(from Table 200 in "Book Two: The Great Break-Up")

Based on verification of 253 (N) objective historical predictions and descriptions;
 N = net predictions F=failed P= fulfilled PEN=pending
 Compiled & copyright 1999 by MW Mandeville; For the key to the columns and notations in this Table look for "Notations" in the Appendix of Book Two.

CH.	TYPE OF PREDICTION	TOT	R	U	A	N	F	P	PEN	SCORE
	Long Term Clairvoyance:
22	Long General Stock Market	48	6	4	9	29	1	28	0	96.55%
23	Total Economic	90	12	3	12	63	4	58	1	93.55%
M	Total World Political	199	21	7	90	81	6	72	3	92.31%
M	Total Earth Changes	167	33	32	35	67	6	32	29	84.21%
42	Total Millennium	53	10	0	30	13	0	1	12	100.00%
	CAYCE'S HARD SCORE	557	82	46	176	253	17	191	45	91.83%

the volatile stock market of the 1920's and 1930's, with which he was 96% correct for 29 predictions.. His accuracy was nearly as good in predicting 126 economic and political events. His lowest accuracy was in describing Earth Change events, where his accuracy rate was only 84%.

These scores are possible only because all of Cayce's psychic statements were rigorously documented, indexed and preserved. The scores were reached after four years of research by examining, analyzing, and researching every specific statement Cayce made in his 15,000 readings about material historical events or general objective phenomenon which did not depend upon the testimony of individuals. Only those statements which were materially specific enough to objectively match with actual events as recorded in historical records and scientific knowledge were verified and used to calculate Cayce's accuracy.

Finding The Retrospective

As I studied the vast forces and dimensions at work around us to determine the validity of Cayce's comments, many new vistas of understanding opened up for me. One of them was a retrospective of the 20th century which formed up to become "Book Two: The Great Break-up". This retrospective view resolved a lot of political and personal issues for me about the 20th century world. It also gave me the eerie feeling, when I was finished calculating Cayce's objective score for predictions about the 20th century, that Cayce's story about the economic and political "Break-Up" of the 20th century was also an allegory of the Great Breakup of human civilization which will attend the flight of the Phoenix..

Tracking The Phoenix

The retrospective of the 20th century was as nothing compared to the new avenues of understanding which opened up about the "World Epic" of the human past. Early on in the Quest I became aware of the central significance of the allegory of the Phoenix in the World Epic. Through the parallels and the correlations which I could find everywhere between the geological record in the rocks and the ancient memories of humanity, it became progressively obvious to me that in the beginning of our age, long before the written histories of Egypt, Greece, and Sumeria began, a story was created about the catastrophic destruction of civilization by a massive flood which was attended by volcanoes and earthquakes.

The ancient Egyptians claimed his had occurred many times and called this the Flight of the Phoenix. Cayce agreed and called this a shifting of the poles. He described four major shifts during the last 120,000 years, including the last one which occurred at 10,500 BC. Cayce strongly implied that this avalanche of the crust gave rise to the ancient Egyptian stories of the Zep Tepi which told of when the ancient gods fled their sunken homeland to rebuild in Egypt.

As I sought proof of Cayce's story, I found that a similar story or message about a great catastrophe can be found on every continent in every language. It is as if the survivors of the last flight of the Phoenix in many lands made the determination to make sure their progeny knew about their catastrophic origins and to warn the succeeding generations that the same thing would happen again. Because of the use of certain common symbols and ideas in these ancient stories, it is as if the ancients compared notes and each culture or tribe told a story which was compatible with the others.

Who created the message? How was the message transmitted through the ages? Why did the message fail? Or did it? Has the message been received, after all these years, by those for whom it is intended?

With these questions ever present in my mind during most of the Quest, circumstances conspired to sustain and advance my efforts in finding answers. The questions took me far beyond Edgar Cayce and I was able to gather and bind into the Trilogy a great many connections to the legend of the Earth-Phoenix.

These connections demonstrate that the Phoenix allegory is the master key for decoding the concepts of many ancient myths and legends from many different peoples far beyond the shores of the Nile.

This master key unlocks mysteries such as the origin and meaning of the "genesis" mythology which appears throughout the world in many forms. More significantly, it unlocks the end-of-the-age "millennial prophecy" which is echoed among the traditions of many peoples. In a manner of speaking, the "Genesis" story is the "End Time" story and both are just two different sides of the same "Phoenix" coin.

The Egyptian part of this story became so large that most of it is currently parked in an unfinished manuscript called "The Hall of Records". This might eventually be published as a fourth book in the "Return of the Phoenix" series.

Groking The Vortex

As I worked with this master key and the ideas of ancient Egypt which have been transmitted through hermetic channels, I began to sense the outline of a series of relationships and correlations for how the dynamics of the earth work to create earthquakes, volcanoes, tectonic plate movements, and pole shifts (which is an highly inaccurate way of describing a shift in the location of the poles) or, more aptly said, an avalanche of the crust.

Slowly I backed into an astounding scientific discovery which is as significant to the Earth Sciences as the formulation of plate tectonics some 40 years. I found that it is polar motion, the slowly drifting wobble in the Earth's spin, which creates and drives the quaking and volcanism which attends tectonic plate movements. Most amazing, I discovered that even El Nino and Global Warming Syndrome are directly tied to the wobbling motions of the Earth's crust.

And what drives the crust to wobble and thus cause the location of the poles to constantly move? As the ancients said, as above so below. The cycles of the Sun and the Moon drive the wobble in the Earth's crust, which was named "Chandler's Wobble" in the 19th century.

This makes geology much simpler than most geologists and Earth scientists suspect. Geological dynamics all come down to this one thing, the motions of Chandler's Wobble. The various rhythms and variations in Chandler's Wobble create the major tectonic events and structures on the Earth.

The mechanism is elegantly simple and complete. The location of the spin axis of the Earth's crust (the North and South Poles) is ceaselessly changing relative to the surface of the Earth as the crust wobbles to and fro in a spiraling motion around the fixed orientation of the spin axis (the North and South Poles). The spin axis wobbles not at all, it is the crust of the Earth which does the moving, constantly changing the focal point of its daily rotation. This wobbling motion creates the stresses and strains which force the shape of the crust to constantly "shape-shift" slightly like a quivering bowl of Jell-O.

As the crust wobbles, the equatorial rim and the polar zones shift their locations slightly. Centrifugal force of the spin flattens the polar zones and expands the equatorial rim, thus forcing an actual slight change in the curvature of the entire Earth each time the crust wobbles over the poles. This shape-shifting directly produces the fault cracks, earthquakes, volcanoes and some of the impulse which drives the tectonic plates to over-ride each other.

The shape-shifting also indirectly causes El Nino and the Global Warming Syndrome. As the curvature of the Earth shifts, the great rifts (which circle the Earth on the bottoms of the oceans) expand or close up, increasing or decreasing the release of heat into the bottoms of the oceans near certain junctions.

In the case of El Nino, heat is valved into the South Pacific from the ocean bottom near Fiji/Vanuatu. For several months during the early part of 2001, large numbers of large earthquakes deep in the crust in this area of the South Pacific strongly suggest that a major release of heat is underway from major rifting in the ocean bottom. This most likely augers a major El Nino year in 2002 if ... the Phoenix does not fly in the meantime..

These simple relationships I named Vortex Tectonics in order to summarize the essence of a new science of the Earth which is based on this polar motion. This new science will eventually come in vogue during the next two decades.

The discovery and formulation of vortex tectonics was one of the most exciting discoveries and personally rewarding activities of my quest. It took me far beyond verifying the work of others or of synthesizing other's people findings and ideas. I got to do real science and make real correlations to formulate new geological principles about how the world works materially. My findings point to, demonstrate, and lay the preliminary proofs and basis of exploring a profoundly new paradigm which will answer a lot of questions. If you want to do original science, even as an undergraduate student, in creating a brand new paradigm 20 years ahead of established theories, get crackin' on the vortex.

The proofs of these relationships are offered in a variety of graphs and articles on "Vortex Tectonics" which are online at MichaelMandeville.com. Recently all of the Vortex Tectonics articles and a large number of graphs have been bundled into the first CDROM for this fledgling new science. (See "Vortex Tectonics: The New Science of the Earth - CDROM No. 1" in the Cosmic Catalog at the end of this Bulletin)

One might question at first the relevance of Vortex Tectonics for the Phoenix Quest. But the question disappears with the insight that a sudden avalanche of the crust is simply an extension of the Earth's current wobbling motions.

At some point the wobble will lose its stable spiraling form and begin to move erratically. The spin energies in the various portions of the uneven mass of the crust will contend with each other to push the crust in new directions. If the mass of the crust was perfectly symmetrical, nothing new would happen. But the mass is not symmetrical and many factors change the balance of the location of mass more and more as time goes by. But eventually the centrifugal force in the Earth's spin will force a radical relocation of mass to rebalance the overall spin of the Earth.

This will happen when the Earth shape-shifts enough to allow the crust to float over the liquid mantle past the elliptical "pinch" bounds which have been created by its previous shape. The Earth's crust will then "fall" and pick up speed as it falls just like any avalanche.

Since the Earth is slightly elliptical in shape, the out-of-round shape of the inner surface of the crust is pinched and thus braked by the round shape of the liquid mantle. To move or wobble beyond these bounds, the imbalances of mass on the surface, such as the ice on Antarctica and Greenland have to build up enough to enable the wobble to overcome the hydraulic force of the mantle. When the crust begins to do this it will most likely be accompanied by huge earthquakes and volcanic eruptions throughout, most especially, the equatorial zones.

For the spinning "top" of the Earth, uphill is the polar zone, downhill is the equatorial zone, which is to where all excess destabilizing weight (mass) must eventually be flung. In the case of the Earth, the main destabilizing excess mass consists of the huge two to three mile thick polar ice caps on Greenland and Antarctica. These must fall towards the Equator.

This is the major engine of most long term geological change. This simple engine produces major shifts (20-30 degrees) in the location of the poles every 10,000 to 50,000 years. During some periods prior to the last shift, small shifts (of a degree or less) have occurred as frequently as every 2500 years or so.

There is no other comparable tectonic engine. Only the vastly slower process of erosion and the occasional rude interference from asteroids which strike infrequently have effects which are as large as those produced by the avalanching of the crust..

Establishing The Trends

My discovery that the vortex of polar motion in Chandler's Wobble rules tectonic activity on the Earth was entirely unsought. I backed into the discovery through simplistic efforts to establish whether Cayce's predictions about trends of increasing tectonic activity in the Earth were true or not. I downloaded huge earthquake databases from the internet and drew up graphs of earthquake activity.

Soon enough I found that some motions in the great tectonic plates of the Earth had increased by a factor of at least four times since 1958. This simple fact easily verified Cayce's major prediction about an increase in gradual earth changes beginning in 1958 which would continue up to the pole shift in 2000 or 2001. (See a following article on "The Trends In The Earth").

Being an over-achiever, I decided to see if the same pattern of increase could be found in volcanism. Somehow it seemed to me that that would make the proof stronger (or the case weaker, depending upon how it turned out). After constructing my own database from printed catalogues of volcanic activity, I could easily see in volcanic activity the same trend of a four-fold increase during the period of past 40 years.

As I looked at the wave patterns in the trendlines of volcanism and earthquakes in various parts of the world, I wondered if anyone had determined if these ups and downs correlated to other cycles. After a tour of the internet, I was able to track down the largely ignored work of Charles Whitten, who was the chief geophysicist for the USGS for many years. He had discovered that large earthquakes came bunched up at a certain phase in the 6.5 year spiral cycle of Chandler's Wobble.

It wasn't long before I was creating charts of earthquake and volcanic activity superimposed over the wave forms of polar motion as it wobbled through its 6.5 year cycles up and down the Greenwich Meridian. I soon discovered that the tempo of volcanic activity is clearly reflective of these 6.5 year waveforms of Chandler's Wobble. I was also rewarded by seeing earthquakes sprout on the charts in spurts which were orchestrated by the baton of the constantly wandering location of the poles. (See Charts 103, 105, & 106 in "Trends In The Earth", an article which follows this one.)

I wondered how El Nino and global warming might relate and so I painted up a graph of polar motion wobbling up and down Greenwich Meridian in its 14 month and 6.5 year cycles. I painted in the years of El Nino over the graph and there, amazingly, revealed in the chart was the clear and simple proof that the timing of El Nino and the spiral waveform of polar motion are very closely linked. (See Chart 108 in "Trends")

In The Earth, an article which follows this one.)

By tracking this timing relationship through graphs of volcanic activity in certain key areas of the South Pacific, the graphs (especially Chart 106) show fairly clearly that El Nino is directly connected to the rise and fall of volcanism in the South Pacific which of course are created as a response to a 6.5 year spiraling cycle in the Earth's wobble (Chandler's').

Creating The Newsgroups

To tune people into my work and get feedback, I formed a Phoenix Quest newsgroup in 1997 at Egroups.com. It was initially focused on the gathering of data and perspectives about prophecy and Cayce for the major themes in the trilogy of the "Return of the Phoenix", especially its treatment of "The Prophecies". But as the vortex concepts developed and the mechanics of the pole shift took form in 2000, the Phoenix Quest was split in two. Since early in 2001, both internet email groups have been reincarnated as Yahoogroups. (see panel insert for web addresses and how to subscribe at no cost).

The new group, is called the Earth Changes Bulletin. Its primary purpose is to provide a quick channel for alerting people about anything connected to Earth Changes which may be involved in some way with the predicted avalanche of the crust. The news link is highly moderated and the posts are identified in the subject line in such a way as to provide easy research on various topics in the archive. Only three people at this time can post to this group even though its membership is now over 850 people from around the world.

The Phoenix Quest has been retained as an open discussion group among people who are communicating about how to cooperate for achieving personally a richer spiritual environment regardless of what happens and for maximizing survival of the flight of Phoenix Five. The author uses this group as a personal sounding board and so do several other members. More and more the group has begun to think about creating havens for refuge from the storm.

These groups have drawn some of the brightest minds of humanity in many diverse fields, encompassing both high science and deep spirituality. Many have made the Quest their own and have provided astute information and advice. They have helped me to allow the Phoenix Quest to take on its own life with the direct involvement of other people. I look forward to this happening more and more.

Building The Earth Systems Monitor

Seeing how all of the tectonic activity in the Earth is directly reflective of the motions of the crust (which are driven by the Sun and the Moon) I began in the middle of 2000 to create an online monitoring system of the Earth-Moon-Sun system. By using the eyes and brains of Phoenix Quest subscribers, the Earth Systems Monitor has evolved into a good inventory of real-time and near real-time scientific sources of information about nearly all aspects of the Earth, Moon, and Sun. These resources are organized and linked together on the Earth Systems Monitor Homepage. (See panel insert for the web address).

The latest earthquakes can be easily scanned or studied in detail. Data on volcanic activity is quickly surveyed to find the latest status. Currently a live web cam of El Popo's activity is linked in, as well as near-live SOHO webcam feeds of solar flares, solar storm alerts, the Earth's magnetic fields, the current sunspot count, and much more.

The Earth Systems Monitor is organized with two major subsections. One is the Polar Motion Monitor, on which the spiral plot of the pole is shown and updated monthly, along with the X and Y waveform plots of polar motion, which are updated daily. These plots provide the final warning sentinels. When the flight begins, the traces on these plots will immediately show the aberration of motion which will lead to the avalanche.

For personal or professional study of the Earth's wobble, Davis Chapman, a software engineer who is a fellow traveler on the Quest, has made an ultra-easy-to-use software program (called Wobble Track) with which anyone can call down the latest data on polar motion from the world database over the internet and view an up-to-date look at the spiraling track of the wobble. This software enabled me to spot some dynamics of polar motion which I had not fully caught. With this better view, I was able finally to understand that the current drift in the overall location of Chandler's Wobble is the cause of the four-fold increase in tectonic motion since 1960.

At the beginning of 2001 I decided to add the "Psychic Monitor" to the Earth Systems Monitor to keep informed about psychic impressions and predictions. I hoped to pull together, in a visible, organized way, as much consensus as possible from those with otherworldly sensitivities about the predicted avalanche of the crust. I hoped that we might get a better sense of timing. I wanted to see if others could now see the looming event more clearly than has been described by Cayce, Montgomery, and others. I especially wanted to find out if any could do better than I had in defining the probable line of fall of the avalanche, its distance, its duration, and its top rate of speed.

To capture predictions and impressions, I designed a format for visualizing the avalanche and a set of questions designed to call up information which could be plugged into the format. I also provided a special Yahoogroups email archive at which people could post their visions. This has not yet "caught on". After six months there are only about 100 posts into the archive but perhaps it is not supposed to get heavy in volume. I have begun to appreciate fully that psychic sensitivities are like a herd of goats. You can pretty much rely on them to go in every possible direction all at the same time.

A few of those who tuned in, such as "Cosa Nostra Damus", Pam Wiseman, and Elaine Phipps-Earl sent information and psychic impressions of the highest quality. Those who did respond provided the main material in this Bulletin for updating Cayce's millennial prophecies with much more specific information about dates, warnings, and omens for this year. Some of this new information comes from as far back as the writings of Nostradamus. (For a presentation of the best of this new earth prophecy material, see Articles 5 through 13).

Maintaining and expanding the Earth Systems Monitor will continue to be one part of my personal Quest. It is a million dollar resource! From the data and information which I can collect through it, the materials and findings for reports and bulletins such as this one are now easily generated at light speeds.

Ten years ago it would have taken a large budget to bring such information together but even with a lot of money a good portion of the data simply was not available at the time. Now subtle changes in the dynamics of the Earth can be detected within a few hours and relayed in minutes to large numbers of people all around the globe through the email news links

For those without internet access, weekly updates are made through the Millennium Radio Network on the "Mysteries of the Mind" evening show with Alex Merklinger. Alex Merklinger is a strong member of the Phoenix Quest family and is dedicated to providing important news about the Changes In The Earth to his radio audience. (See panel insert for additional information).

Spirits Rising Seeking An Haven

At this juncture (end of May 2001), the intellectual and scientific aspects of my Quest has run its course. Other than tinkering with the Earth Systems Monitor, watching, waiting, and warning people as important information comes in, there is very little new ground I wish to pursue about issues on the mental plane.

My Quest turns now to the practical aspects of physical survival and spiritual affairs. This road seems to be heading in the direction of creating a spiritually oriented community

I have begun to assist the reorganization and development of Elk Mountain Spiritual Healing Center, which is a nonprofit corporation in New Mexico. The parties involved, lead especially by Arthur and Denise Johnson (Arthur is also widely known as Cornplanter) are primarily focused to create a spiritual haven in New Mexico which combines the deepest therapies and techniques of "raising spirits" while healing bodies and souls. A website has been partially created for Elk Mountain (see the panel insert for the URL).

At elevations between 6000 to 7500 feet along the continental divide, this area of central and western New Mexico is often rugged, secluded, deeply peaceful, remote, dignified, and sometimes surprisingly lush and fruitful.

I have come to a place in my life where I would seek something like this regardless of all else. As I have diligently sought answers to the ancient mysteries and modern marvels, I have opened the doors to an ever expanding consciousness of the psychic energies and the spiritual realm. I am now virtually at the position in which Gopi Krishna found himself a half century ago as the Kundalini fires rise up each day and sometimes burn with indescribable intensities. The fires required him to abandon his life while he learned how to come into the proper balance of the energies.

The balancing and manifestation of these energies would appear to be my next appointment as my soul continues the Phoenix Quest.

Elk Mountain Spiritual Center Havens Program

Several spiritual seekers are seeking to create a haven in North Central New Mexico to survive the flight of Phoenix Five or retirement, which ever comes first. We intend to find a way to accommodate as many as several hundred persons. If you are interested, please call 817-496-4891 or send mail to Cornplanter, 7300 Ederville Rd. #1611, Ft. Worth, TX 76112

General Environment

- Large 500 acre ranch parcels nestled among tens of thousands of acres of primitive, undeveloped cattle ranches mixed with National Forests straddling the Continental Divide at an elevation of around 7200 feet between Sante Fe and Farmington New Mexico.
- Solar Insolation is very high most of the year yet the region receives ample rain to support high Ponderosa Pine, Oak, Cedar, Juniper, Fir, Cottonwood, and many other plants.
- The aquifers have never been depleted and the water in them is sweet, pure, and ample. The ground medium is mainly very ancient sandstone. Many properties have natural gas wells.
- The soil is a reddish sandy mud which makes excellent adobe and fires very well into a fine grained pottery.

General Facilities

- The region is remote, the nearest small town, Lindrith, is about ten miles away and there is not much at the town which is open other than a gas station and a post office and a couple of small frame churches.
- La Querencia - The Noetics Ecotery Property: 500 acres, includes Continental Divide outcroppings, trails, Anasazi ruins and artifacts, mature Ponderosa Pine forest, some open meadow lands, the manager's house, and plenty of flat land amidst the pines for tents, trailers, and RV's.
- Gold Retreat Center: (adjacent one square mile) This retreat center provides the ability to offer commercial services, such as a deluxe kitchen and a large lecture/dining hall, a huge dome for meditation and musical experiments, a finely appointed big yurt for lectures, a receptionist's office, a two story adobe house, 2 small "motel" rooms, four luxury resort type large bedroom cabins, 3 big group cabins for summer camp groups, a Labyrinth built by Cornplanter many years ago, and some of the most magnificent mountain serenity in North America.